

Mobix Labs CEO Fabian Battaglia to Speak at Octane's Tech Innovation Forum

May 6, 2021

IRVINE, Calif., May 6, 2021 — Mobix Labs Inc., a fabless RF (radio frequency) component company focused on next-generation wireless technologies, today announced that its CEO Fabian Battaglia will be a panelist during the 2021 Tech Innovation Forum.

Hosted by the Octane Foundation, the three-day event starting May 17 will focus on the acceleration of innovation as a result of COVID-19 and feature both digital content and in-person networking events.

Battaglia will serve as a speaker during the virtual panel discussion titled, "Breaking the Code of Accessing Capital," being held on Wednesday, May 19 at 12:15 p.m. PST and address how business organizations can be successful at raising money.

"This is going to be a great discussion, especially with Mark Skaist of Stradling as our moderator, and Syntiant's Kurt Busch and Hyperice's Jim Huether as other speakers," said Battaglia. "Orange County is home to many innovative companies because of the rich ecosystem here in Southern California that has been cultivated by organizations like the Octane Foundation, which keeps growth opportunities for these entities alive and well."

Mobix Labs recently announced that it has raised $12.5 million in funding that included an extended seed round and initial capital raise. The company's fully scalable True5G™ solution provides unprecedented levels of integration and performance across a wide variety of customer platforms, including small cells and base stations, industrial IoT and medical devices, and consumer products and handsets.
