IRVINE, Calif., Oct. 03, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Mobix Labs, Inc. (Nasdaq: MOBX), a fabless semiconductor company serving aerospace, defense, 5G, and other high-growth markets, today announced plans to accelerate its expansion through a bold mergers and acquisitions program, setting the stage for what it believes could be a breakout 2026 fiscal year.

Access to $100 Million+ in Capital to Support Aggressive Growth

With access to more than $100 million through its equity line of credit and shelf registration, Mobix Labs has positioned itself to act swiftly and decisively. This capital gives the Company the ability to pursue acquisitions that could dramatically expand its footprint and unlock new revenue streams in industries undergoing rapid transformation.

“Our strategy is clear — act decisively on the right opportunities,” said Phil Sansone, Chief Executive Officer of Mobix Labs. “Mobix Labs is going on offense with a focused acquisition program designed to strengthen our market position and accelerate growth. We are prepared to use our capital strategically to pursue acquisitions that we believe will transform the Company and create significant long-term value for our investors.”

Positioned to Capture Growth Drivers in 2026

Sansone added: “Defense modernization, aerospace innovation, and global wireless expansion are massive long-term growth drivers, and the timing could not be better. We see this as a once-in-a-generation opportunity to consolidate, grow, and establish Mobix Labs as a leader in industries that are shaping the future. We believe our investors will be the ultimate winners as we execute on this disciplined and aggressive plan.”

Mobix Labs’ launch of its aggressive acquisition-driven strategy marks the next chapter in its growth story. As the Company enters its next fiscal year, its access to capital and disciplined approach to pursuing high-impact opportunities provide the foundation for transformative expansion. By combining bold execution with a clear vision, Mobix Labs is positioning itself to deliver sustained growth and long-term value for its shareholders.
